

BOARD NOMINATIONS PROCESS AND TIMELINE

DBIA National is inviting DBIA members in good standing to submit nominations for the 2010 board of directors. We are seeking candidates who understand and support DBIA's mission and goals, and who are committed to advancing the understanding and use of design-build project delivery across all sectors and markets. In addition, candidates must agree to the responsibilities outlined in the Board Charter (contact lwashington@dbia.org for a copy).

When reviewing candidates, the Nominations Committee will consider, among other things, the following:

- Previous services to and support of DBIA by the nominee or his/her organization.
- The nominee's availability for up to four face-to-face meetings per year (with the exception of public owners, board members are responsible for their own travel costs).
- The DBIA designation credential is preferred, though not required.

Of particular interest are individuals representing owner organizations, both public and private. However, nominees representing any member organization are encouraged and welcomed.

Although individuals may nominate other people, the full nomination package should come directly from the person being nominated to validate confirmation of the nominee's interest. The nomination must include the following information:

- Full resume and condensed bio (condensed version for use by DBIA if selected);
- Photo (.jpeg file for use by DBIA if selected);
- Why you are interested in serving on the DBIA National Board;
- A brief letter confirming your willingness to attend up to four board meetings per year without travel reimbursement (with the exception of public owners), and confirming your commitment to DBIA's mission and strategic goals.
- The names and contact information of at least two DBIA members that "second" the nomination.
