

Design-Build-Save

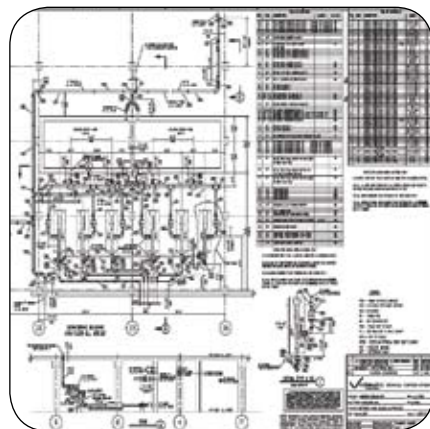

Every design/build project needs to stay on schedule to be successful. On-site material handling can account for up to 1/3 of the total project labor. Reducing material handling will increase your opportunity to meet or beat your project estimate.

Victaulic, the world leader in mechanical pipe joining systems, provides coordination and drawing services that can dramatically impact on-site material handling. Victaulic project management service drawings will reduce the time required to route piping systems and provide an easy-to-follow road map for installation. Bagged and tagged materials can be delivered to specific locations to further reduce handling.

Call Victaulic today at 800-PICK-VIC (742-5842) to find out how you can drastically improve your next project. To experience the efficiencies of our project management services let us provide you with a pre-bid proposal on your next project.
